Spencer Hamersmith	NYU 2023	Elsberg Baker & Maruri		David (Triumoh Search)
	Amelia	Molly	Jeremy	Nik	Andrea	Overall
Knowledge of BHB History	9	8 General understanding of the firm. He's at a boutique now so familiar with types of litigation and expectations.	10	7 Wasn't clear how much he knew—he seemed excited at the prospect of joining us, though	9	8.60
Comments
Quality of Questions about your experience	10	8	10	9 Good questions about how we like our attys to develop, firm culture, etc.	9	9.20
Comments
Intellectual engine / smarts?	10	9	10	10 Definitely smart	10 He is intellectually curious, articulate, interesting, and super smart.	9.80
Comments
Relevant experience related to positions	7	7 Still pretty junior—he has basically a single year of experience and mostly has been briefing and supporting. Its what I would expect at his level.	10	4 The lack of experience taking depos/taking witnesses/attending trials/arguing hearings is a fairly glaring issue, in my opinion. I think it's odd that he hasn't had stand up experience at a place like Elsberg Baker Maruri. He mentioned EBM just doesn't seem interested in giving their juniors experience, but having interviewed with EBM when I was leaving Akin, I got the exact opposite impression from every partner and associate I spoke with. They came across as even more trial by fire than we are. Maybe I'm wrong and EBM just hasn't been investing, but I'm very weary of this.	9.5 Spencer hasn't had standup experiences yet, but he was a creative writing major, and his writing sample is great. He's also coming off of back-to-back clerkships with a ton of writing experience.	7.50
Comments	Spencer has 2 clerkships, but only has 1 year of law firm experience, which isn't a lot. He said his current firm is more like big law than he was expecting and he's hoping for more substantive experience. But after so little time, maybe there's more going on. He also said he was accepted in the DOJ honors program and then had to scramble after DOGE cut the program, so that could be part of it.
Ability to describe subsantive experience	8	8 He was good at describing his cases	10	7	10	8.60
Comments
Nervous / awkward?	10	9	10	8	10	9.40
Comments
Rationale for interest in BHB	8	7 He's at a boutique so I am not sure if he is just impatient for more experience (but its early to expect that) or he's actually bored or has another reason.	10	10 Makes total sense that he wants to come here given the experience he described at EBM. He's hungry for real experience and wants to be a trial attorney.	10 Spencer shared that he was accepted into the DOJ Honors Program, but that was no longer feasible with the current administration. He then mindfully chose a boutique that sounds a lot like BHB, except he didn't end up getting to do any of the standup experiences he was hoping to have, and he's looking to go somewhere that will offer those opportunities. I encouraged him to talk to our NY associates about how they've gotten to take depos, argue motions, and handle witnesses at trial in their first year here.	9.00
Comments
Trust to represent BHB in court with clients?	10	9	10	8	10	9.40
Comments
Would you enjoy working with candidate?	9	9	10	10 I like him!	10	9.60
Comments
Red flags / unusual behavior (0 for red flag, 10 for no red flags)	10	10	7 Leaving a similar boutique after 1 year is the only thing that gives me any concern after an otherwise great interview. His explanation was that he was not getting substantive opportunities which is why he went boutique in the first place, and wants to go somewhere where that will be available	7 Like I said above, lack of relevant experience despite being at a trial-by-fire boutique for a year is a big red flag for me. Otherwise, no, seems like a great person.	10	8.80
Comments
Overall	9.43	8.57	9.57	8.71	9.71	9.20

Andrea - Spencer is really smart and engaging and great to talk to. I can see him fitting right in at BHB.